FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE: July 2011

Norwell Lighting & ILEX™ Architectural Lighting announce acquisition of Davis/ Muller Lighting.

ILEX Architectural Lighting, a market leader in energy-efficient lighting solutions for hospitality and commercial markets, is pleased to announce the acquisition of the privately held Davis / Muller Lighting. Originally founded by two of the industries most respected and prolific product designers, Davis/ Muller Lighting are a leading provider of architectural lighting for the commercial and design market. The Boston area based company offers a full line of specification grade decorative bowls, sconces, pendants and ceiling mount fixtures.

"The addition of the Davis / Muller line significantly strengthens our presence in the commercial and hospitality market," said CEO, Alan Indursky. "We welcome the Davis / Muller team to the family and look forward to expanding our portfolio to our clients. Both brands allow us to expand our customization capabilities to satisfy the specific demands of commercial, hospitality, retail or commercial environments."

Davis / Muller Lighting sales and distribution operations will remain independent but all manufacturing of the line will be relocated to the 72,000 square foot ILEX manufacturing facility located in Taunton, Massachusetts.

About Davis / Muller Lighting

The Davis / Muller portfolio offers clean, understated designs focused on enhancing while not dominating their environment. With a focus on quality, yet rugged construction, Davis / Muller products are built to maintain their beauty through many years of daily use in the rigors of a commercial application. The full line of specification grade decorative bowls, sconces, pendants and ceiling mount fixtures are available in numerous sizes, lamping configurations, and optional equipment all intelligently engineered to provide optimal photometry, operating efficiency and ease of maintenance.
